CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY
IMPLEMENTATION OF
EXECUTIVE ORDER 10501

COMPLETED QUESTIONNAIRE

1. a. Has your department experienced any difficulty in the classification of defense information on the basis of the definitions for the three categories?

Answer: No

- b. Do you consider that proper classification is assisted by the example given for the two higher categories?

Answer: Yes

2. a. Has the limitation of authority to classify defense information, to the extent applicable to your agency, impeded the proper implementation of the Order?

Answer: No

- b. Please advise what action your department has taken to insure that the delegation of authority to classify information has been limited as severely as is consistent with the orderly and expeditious transaction of Government business.

Answer: Within this Agency the delegation of authority to classify information is controlled by an establishment known as the "Classification Control Network." This network, under the jurisdiction of the Assistant Director for Central Reference, consists of (1) the CIA Classification Control Officer; (2) Assistant Classification Control Officers; and, (3) Authorized Classifiers.

The chiefs of major components and operating officials designate the Assistant Classification Control Officers within their respective areas to effectively administer and supervise classification procedures. The names and titles of persons so designated are submitted in writing with effective dates to the CIA Classification Control Officer who is appointed by the Assistant Director for Central Reference. The Assistant Classification Control Officers are responsible for the designation of selected responsible individuals who, as Authorized Classifiers, are responsible for the effective application of classification procedures within their respective areas of jurisdiction.

The CIA Classification Control Officer, Assistant Classification Control Officers, and Authorized Classifiers are the only persons authorized to apply an original classification to information or material.

3. To what extent, if any, has overclassification and unnecessary classification been noted since the last report thereon in 1958?

Answer: Since 1958, the problem of overclassification within the Central Intelligence Agency has been considerably reduced through the processes of education and the Classification Control Network which is responsible for monitoring this program.

4. a. Describe in brief the procedures established for implementing declassification and downgrading as set forth in Section 4 of the Order.

Answer: The Classification Control Network is responsible for declassification and downgrading of classified information and material. Network personnel continually review classified material to effect nonautomatic changes, and downgrade or declassify such material when circumstances no longer warrant its retention in its original classification, provided the consent of the appropriate original classifying authority has been obtained.

Automatic changes are indicated by rubber stamped or typed instructions placed on information or material at the time of original classification, directing that after a specified event or date, or upon removal of certain classified enclosures, such information or material be downgraded or declassified.

Notification is given to all recipients of classified material which has been declassified or reclassified in order to preserve the effectiveness and integrity of the system and to reduce the accumulation of classified material which no longer requires the original classification.

- b. With respect to the authorization granted by EO 10816, the departments and agencies designated under Section 2 (a) of EO 10501 are requested to briefly describe the procedures established to implement Section 4 of EO 10501.

Answer: Not applicable to this Agency.

5. a. Please describe the types of storage facilities used by your department for the storage of (a) Top Secret material, and (b) Secret and Confidential material.

Answer: Within this Agency the physical security standards for the storage of classified material are as follows:

Answer: Yes

Answer: All Agency employees who have knowledge of the loss or possible subsection to compromise of classified defense information are required to report such information to the Director of Security immediately. If notification is first made orally, it must be confirmed without delay by a memorandum containing all circumstances and facts surrounding the loss or possible compromise. An immediate investigation is undertaken by the Director of Security to recover lost classified material and where compromise is suspected or is known, action is taken to resolve the compromise and to preclude possible recurrences.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Mr. Dulles:

Even though Mr. Doherty's letter to you is dated 17 June and the reply has just been received from Security, it is to be pointed out that your letter is well under the wire as a 90-day deadline was set by the Interdepartmental Committee on Internal Security. I might mention to you that before a reply could be prepared on this letter, it was necessary for the Office of Security to send out a questionnaire to quite a large number of offices within the Agency for information before the enclosed questionnaire could be completed.
